EASTER GIFTS

Easter has always had a different "feel" from Christmas. Few Easter parties, practically no Easter "songs" on the radio, no Easter gifts to shop for and obsess over. This is not to say that there are no Easter gifts, just the ones brought by the risen Lord. Today's Gospel names them.

INSIDE THE READINGS

The second reading this Sunday provides an example of the courageous witness of the apostles to the resurrected Lord. The reading is initially a bit ambiguous, and it is important to clarify who is involved and where they are located in order to appreciate the significance of the passage. Readers are told that the apostles did many miracles, and that "they were all together in Solomon's Portico" (Acts 5:12). Who was in Solomon's Portico? The prior verse speaks about the whole church. But it is unlikely that the whole church was in Solomon's Portico because as a result of the activity there we find out in verse 17 that the religious leaders arrest the apostles. Solomon's Portico was in the temple in Jerusalem. It was in the temple that two of the apostles, Peter and John, had recently been arrested and sternly warned not to preach about Jesus again (Acts 3-4). The authorities do not want Christianity to spread among the people (4:17). Yet here are the apostles once more in the very spot that attracted this hostile reaction, doing the same thing that occasioned the leaders to threaten them: making many converts (5:14). This explains the sentence that immediately follows the claim that "they were all together in Solomon's Portico" (5:12): "None of the others dared to join them, but the people esteemed them" (5:13). To be precise, none of the other Christians joined the apostles in the temple. For them, the place was simply too hot a spot to enter, given the current climate of intimidation. By returning and witnessing despite the threats, the apostles provide the means for Resurrection faith to grow exponentially. They model for subsequent Christians the valor through which the Christian message reaches others.

THOUGHTS FOR ACTION

The Holy Spirit is the great gift of the risen Lord, given to us at baptism and confirmation and whenever we gather to celebrate the Eucharist. This Spirit brings the power to forgive, enabling the community of the risen Lord both to receive and to give forgiveness. The risen Christ is the head of his body, the church. We pray that we will be the instrument of Christ's peace in the world. We pray that we will be open to the Spirit working in our own lives, especially by our willingness to forgive others.
